

Littleton High School Ranks in Top 10 Best Public High Schools in Greater Boston

LITTLETON — Superintendent Kelly Clenchy is pleased to announce that Littleton High School has been ranked the sixth-best public high school in the Greater Boston area, according to Boston Magazine.

Boston Magazine recently released its annual ranking of the best public high schools in the Greater Boston area, evaluating 150 schools in the I-495 corridor.

Littleton High School ranked sixth based on several criteria, including average class size, student-to-teacher ratio, standardized test scores, graduation rate, and educator evaluations. Boston Magazine uses the most recent data available from the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education to compile its rankings.

LHS was also ranked third in Boston Magazine's Percent of Teachers with Exemplary Ranking list and fourth in its Bang for Your Housing Buck list.

The full rankings can be viewed here.

"To see that Littleton High School was ranked so highly by Boston Magazine is a testament to the commitments of our students, staff, parents, and community members to provide high quality educational opportunities for all," said Superintendent Clenchy. "Their commitment to fostering a personalized learning environment is what makes Littleton Public Schools a wonderful place for students to grow both academically and personally."

###